Tamra Schow has teamed with NPC

NPC Partnering Opportunities with the Reseller Program

Raleigh, NC. (July 2011) – National Power Corporation, a leading Southeast distributor of power solution products, is delighted to announce Tamra Schow as its new Reseller Program representative. Tamra has an Engineering Degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, NY and has provided electrical solutions to the mission-critical space for more than thirty years. Her product experience includes Automatic Transfer Switches and Paralleling Switchgear, Power Distribution Units and Remote Power Panels, Static Transfer Switches, and Uninterruptible Power Supplies.

Tamra will be an integral component in the implementation of NPC's new Reseller Program initiative. Eddie Youngblood, owner of National Power Corporation says that "Tamra brings with her both a deep understanding of mission-critical technology and a variety of strong vendor relationships and I believe that these qualities will assist NPC's reseller partners in growing their businesses. Her relationship with Eaton will allow us to quickly transition to an exclusive Eaton Master Distributor."

NPC's long-standing and mutually-beneficial relationships with Eaton and all of our product manufacturing partners ensure that NPC is positioned to offer the most competitive pricing to our resellers.

To find out more about NPC reseller program call: Bill Baldrige at (800) 790-1672, ext. 6931 or visit the NPC website

About National Power Corporation
